About

Our team at Rowe Plastic Surgery is a group of experienced plastic surgeons, certified by the American Board of Plastic Surgery. We specialize in plastic surgery of the face, breast and body, performing a full range reconstructive and cosmetic procedures. With virtual appointments as well as locations throughout New York and New Jersey, you will be able to meet with our doctors wherever is most convenient for you - even from the comfort of your own home!

Our surgeons trained at some of the top surgical institutions in the country, including The Institute for Reconstructive Plastic Surgery at New York University Medical Center and Johns Hopkins University. Some of our surgeons have additional training and expertise in microsurgery while others are double board certified in general surgery as well.

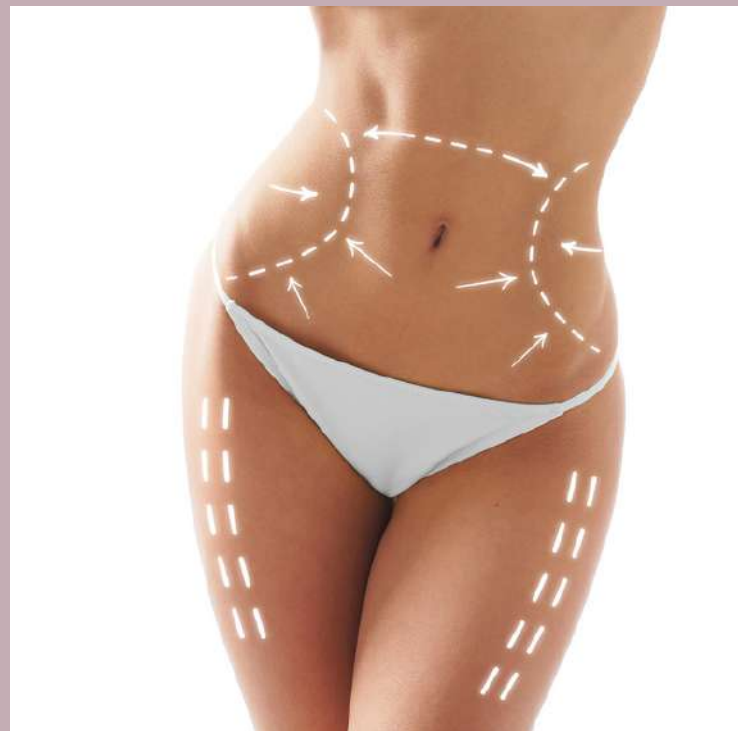

We focus on the latest and most innovative techniques to reduce scarring and trauma from surgery, and they are widely regarded for their short-scar breast reductions.

Breast Reduction Procedure

Breast reduction surgery is a common solution for problems caused by breast hypertrophy, the medical term for large, drooping breasts. This can affect women of all ages and can occur even among those in good physical shape.

While some women dream of larger breasts, others dread the discomfort caused by the weight of their large bosom. If your breasts are out-sized for your body or if they're causing shoulder, back or neck pain, there is an answer: mammoplasty or breast reduction surgery. This safe medical procedure, when performed by the expert breast surgeons at Rowe Plastic Surgery in New York City, reduces your breasts to a more comfortable size that relieves your pain and discomfort. Every breast reduction includes a breast lift to maintain the appearance of your breasts.

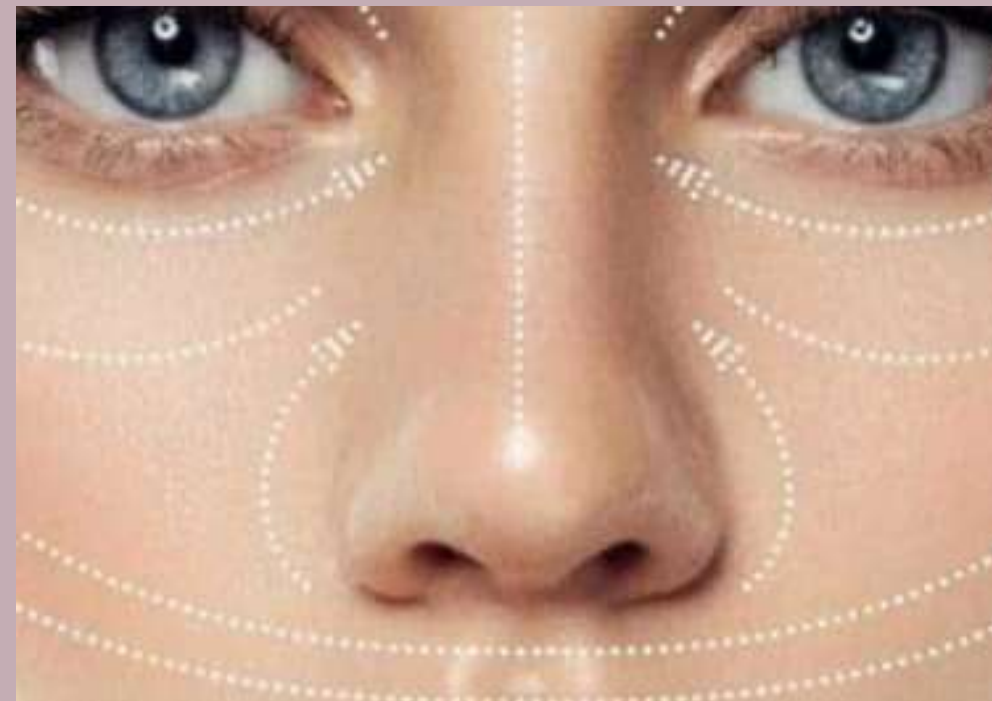

PLASTIC SURGERY PROCEDURES

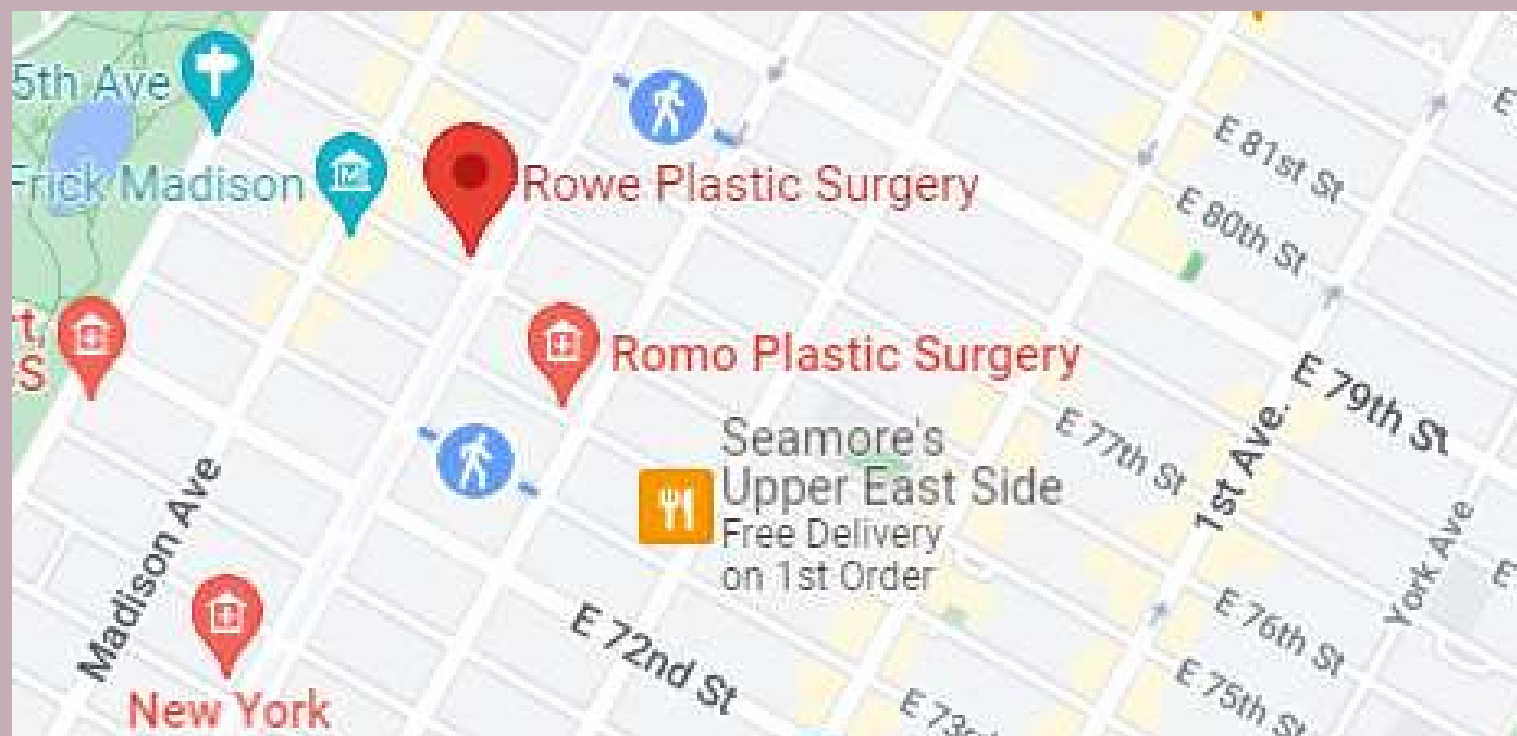

Our plastic surgeons are available to discuss both cosmetic and reconstructive surgeries, as well as in-office procedures.
